THE WAY TO DO BUSINESS.

SOME PRACTICAL HINTS ON THE BEST METHODS OF GETTING AND KEEPING CUSTOMERS.

The object of doing business is to make money. If two or more persons are engaged in the same trade, under the same circumstances the one whose transactions are largest will not only make the most money, but the largest percentage of net profit. A sells $20,000 worth of goods, which allows him an average gross profit of 25 per cent., or $5,000 a year. For store rent he pays $800; for assistant, $500; for fire and light, $100; for miscellaneous expenses, $600, a total of $2,000, leaving a net profit of $3,000.

In the same town, in a similar store, B, an older merchant, longer established and better known, sells $40,000 per annum. B. gets along with about the same rent, clerk hire doubled, costing him $1000 where A pays but $500. B's entire expenses for the year are $3000, while his profits are $10,000 gross; $7,000 net; or 17½ per cent. net. Any business man of experience will pronounce the above exhibit fair. A plan which will enable A to increase his business to an amount equal to that done by B without reducing his percentage of profit, will be worth $4,000 a year. If an expenditure of $2,000 a year in advertising will do it, such an expenditure would be justifiable. If an expenditure of $4,000 will make A's trade double that of B's, then such an expenditure will not be imprudent; for on the $80,000 of business there will be $20,000 profit, from which to deduct the expenses, increased to $1,500, and $4,000 paid for advertising, we will have $10,500 profit, or $3,500 more than that made by B.

B has the larger trade because he is better known; the facts that he is an old merchant, and long established, are of no value further than they have contributed to make him well known. They have advertised him. If A has equal advantages of capital, character and capacity, and is doing business in a region where the population and distributing facilities are equal to the support of so large a trade, he may equal that of B as soon as he convinces the public of the actual truth concerning his facilities. Advertising is the means of informing the public. Advertising attracts new customers. If they are well treated they remain and bring their friends. It is the report of those who trade with him that makes the reputation of the merchant. One who has never visited a store cannot speak of it from experience. Advertising brings the customers. HE MUST BE RETAINED BY BEING WELL SERVED.

No man can do business unless he deals in something that people want. Unless he has a clear field and no competition, he must not only have what is wanted, but must have it of the better quality, at a cheaper price, or serve it in a more satisfactory manner than his competitors, otherwise he will attract only his share of the trade. Every successful business man must secure more than his share. In trade it is important that the profits shall be fair, but as the markets are equally open to all, the quality of goods offered by one dealer may be as good as any other can afford at the same price, the style of serving customers therefore becomes the natural avenue through which to force an increased trade. Suppose then, that the price at which goods are to be sold is a fair, full, market price, the quality the best, selected with care and always reliable; attention must now be paid to the appointments for the transaction of trade. Efficient assistants must be secured and trained to understand the full value of prompt dealing, ready and pleasant adjustment of errors and careful attention to all wants of customers. With all of these a good trade can be secured, provided the customers exist within a convenient radius, and are made aware of the facilities which are offered for their accommodation.

The usual methods of attracting business are well known, and, to a certain extent effective. Every man has a sign to show his name and trade. A handsome display of goods attracts casual observers. Better than these are the commendatory words of the customers who have been served and pleased. A word in favor of a business house is often worth much. If one person's good report is worth something, the commendations of ten will be worth ten times as much, and of an hundred still more. Life is short, and it is every man's ambition to make a fortune. Every thing is sought which will tend to hasten the happy time when that fortune can be counted as made. Every man prefers to trade where he has formerly traded. The shrewd business man is therefore anxious to secure the FIRST possible order from every man who has an order to give. The earlier the first order is secured the better prospect there is of making a regular customer at an early day.

A man intending to do business must first prepare himself to meet the requirements of his customers; next he must let every possible or probable customer know that he is so prepared. In a very small place he may TELL all the people what he can do. In a large village a printed handbill, poster or circular, properly distributed, will be efficacious, but WHOEVER IS IN A PLACE LARGE ENOUGH TO SUPPORT A NEWSPAPER WILL FIND THAT THE CHEAPEST MEDIUM THROUGH WHICH TO ADDRESS THE PUBLIC.—[American Newspaper Reporter.

MACREADY PERPLEXED.—When Macready, the actor, visited this country, he found many things to puzzle and perplex him, for he was as precise and angular as Grewgious. The idioms and eccentricities of the Yankees were beyond his comprehension. At one of our theatres where he was performing an engagement, he had occasion to find fault with the supporting actors, who were a particularly free and easy set. Going to the manager one day he said:

"Mr. Manager, you have deceived me, sir, You have told me that which was not true, sir!"

"Bless me!" cried the manager, in surprise, "how so?"

"About your actors, sir. Did you not tell me that Mr. A——— was on a high?"

"Yes."

"And that Mr. S——— had a touch of the tangle foot?"

"Yes."

"And that Mr. P——— had a brick in his hat?"

"Aye—that was what I said."

"And in explanation of the conduct of Mr. B———, you told me that he had a snake in his boot?"

"Certainly, I did."

"Well, sir, announced the great tragedian, in his most stern and indignant manner. I find, upon critical examination, that these men are all drunk, sir! Aye—all drunk!"

HYMNS.—A writer in the English Churchman's Magazine undertakes to ascertain the number of hymns in the English language, puts the number at seventeen thousand, and finds that only two hundred and sixteen have received the board seal of approval from the whole Anglican Church, and they have appeared in ten Church hymn books. In those two hundred and sixteen, twenty-four are by Watts, twenty-one by Wesley, sixteen by Montgomery, eleven by Heber, nine by Newton, nine by Tate and Brady; eight each by Cowper and Doddridge, and five each by Keble, Kelly, and Neale, and five only are by "Anon."

THE DAY.

Mine host of the Aquidneck House could soon bring the Senatorial contest to a conclusion by doubling his charges.

Mr. John Carter Brown of the firm of Brown and Ives died at his home in Providence yesterday morning.

The President has nominated Mr. J. C. Bancroft Davis, formerly Assistant Secretary of State, to be minister to Berlin.

Self made men are at a premium in this country, but it has not yet been decided that self made Senators are any better than the other kind.

The sale of the New York boats by the Narragansett Steamship Company to the Old Colony Steamboat Company was consummated yesterday.

SENATORIAL ELECTIONS.

The contest for U. S. Senator drags its slow length along in the General Assembly, with no definite results. Gen. Burnside still leads and his friends seem disposed to hold on. Governor Howard insists that he is not and will not be a candidate and hence has a smaller vote than would otherwise be given him. Amos C. Barstow is gaining in popular favor while Mr. Dixon has a much smaller following than his friends anticipated. He presents the novel and repulsive spectacle of a man standing up and voting for himself in a public assembly, a thing we think unparalled in respectable society. His anxiety for office is too great to be encouraged. The vote for Mr. Sheffield is so small and embraces so small a portion of the Newport county delegation that he cannot in any sense be considered our local candidate. As we have said before, he is not the choice of Newport and is not the candidate of this section. If we are to have a local candidate we prefer Samuel Powel or Benjamin Finch either of whom would do honor to the state.

If a compromise candidate is to be brought forward we suggest these names as worthy of consideration. Mr. Finch is one of our leading citizens, true, tried, and trusted, and would do honor to the position, though by no means an aspirant for it. Mr. Powel has also the confidence of all who know him and is in every respect an able man. With such men as these we are not without hope that in the event of a compromise Newport county may be favored with the selection.

BOOK NOTICES.

SEA AND SHORE: A Collection of Poems. Boston, Roberts Brothers. Newport, A. J. Ward.

It is a question whether it is worth while to publish books for reading at Summer resorts but it is kind in the publishers to get out very mild books with pretty covers to aid watering place idlers in killing time. This collection of poems is one of the best things that is offered to people on a vacation. It is exclusively marine, but it may be read inland. The poems are sea songs collected from poets of all ages. Homer, Virgil, Pindar and Ennus give the book a classical aspect and guard the entrance to the volume. Whoever pushes past those venerables finds himself in the more modern society of Morris, Tennyson, Kingsley and a spirited translation from the German by our own Rev. C. T. Brooks. The selections are well made and the printing and binding are beautiful.

BEATEN PATHS, or a Woman's Vacation; by Mrs. Ella M. Thompson. Boston, Lee & Shephard. Newport, Charles E. Hammett, Jr.

After the terrible monotony of reading through the books of travel that crowd the market, this little book comes to us with a freshness and originality only surpassed by "Saunterings" and Helen Hunt's "Bits of Travel." Though treading in "beaten paths," its author contrives to find all their hidden beauties, which have been overlooked by the majority of professional sight seers; and not only this, but she shows you things which seemed to be completely worn out, in an entirely-new light, so that you for a moment doubt if they are the same.

She evidently has the right views of men and things, and a happy faculty of seeing them for what they are, and separating the dross from the pure metal.

The book is full of pleasant things and although the style may sometimes be a little overdrawn, it is better so than the sameness which runs through most books of the kind. It is, altogether, a fit companion for your leisure hours, or your own travels.

SOME WOMEN'S HEARTS; By Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton. Boston, Roberts Brothers. Newport, A. J. Ward.

The title of this book ought to create an immense demand for it. What single man can learn without emotion that he can purchase Some Women's Hearts for the paltry sum of a small bank note? But the name is not its only or chief merit. The book is eminently readable. The subject is interesting. A good many persons would like to know whether or not women have hearts at all and others, who admit that the fair sex is not heartless would be glad to learn something about the nature of that much talked about organ. This book is sentimental, of course, but its sentiment is of a vigorous and not unhealthy kind.

Several stories, none long and all good, are gathered into one volume and offered by Mrs. Moulton as a contribution to feminine psychology. The main story of the book is Fleeing from Fate and it teaches certain lessons about hasty and juvenile marriages and about the difference between the first flutterings of infant hearts and the real love that warrants marriage and ensures happiness that are capable of doing good. In this story the heroine is an unsophisticated country girl and the hero is a very much sophisticated man of the world, and a relentless flirt. She quotes very spoony passages from Tennyson to him the day they first met and on the following day she frankly tells him what she thinks about love and marriage. Of course he flirts with her; it would be very singular if he did'nt.

But he is partially in earnest. He is pleased with her simplicity, sincerity and freshness. The cartilagenous lump—possibly a'gizzard—which in his organization did duty as heart, dilated and contracted slightly and he concluded that he was in love. In six weeks they were engaged, in four months married. This being the history of their courtship no sensible reader will be surprised to learn that within two years he tells her that he can't remember whether, or not, he loved her at their wedding and she solemnly promises never to forgive him. Three years later she deserts him. The rest of the story can be more agreeably learned from the book; perhaps this part might have been. Mrs. Moulton writes with grace and strength and it is not easy to lay the book down till the last page has been read.

PERSONALS.

......The Rev. Phillips Brooks will sail for Europe next month, accompanied by his brother.

......Bishop Bedell preached in Christ Church, Cincinnati, last Sunday, his one thousandth sermon, and selected the same text from which he preached his first sermon.

......Connecticut editors seem to be pretty well taken care of in politics. Mr. Hawley is in Congress, an editor has just been appointed to the state insurance bureau; Mr. York of New Haven Register is clerk of the senate; Mr. Starr of Middletown Sentinal, is a member of the same body; Mr. Burt, of the Hartford Times, is one of the capitol commission; Colonel Kies, of the Danielsonville Herald, is a member of the Assembly; and Colonel Babcock, an ex-editor, has been made a judge.

......Bishop Lee, of Iowa, does not take kindly to the abolition of "deadheadism" on railroads. He says in his recent annual address: "In consequence of the withdrawal of most of the railroad passes with which, until this year, I have been favored, the expenses attending my official visitations have been much increased; but thus far the parishes visited have kindly made up the deficiency and saved me from all pecuniary expenditure for this purpose, for which they have my sincere thanks. It is to be earnestly hoped that the favors which for so long a time had been extended to the bishops and clergy by the railroad corporations throughout the West may be renewed at an early day, especially as they greatly facilitated church work, while the corporations themselves suffered no loss from their kind consideration. We of the clergy can really put forth no actual claim to such liberality; but we know how to receive it with sincere gratitude, particularly as it was granted us for the sake of our office and not from mere personal considerations.

About one hundred Catholic children of Brattleborough stayed out of the village schools on Tuesday to attend church, at the request of their priest, and, in consequence, the school committee refuses to allow them to return, unless they are willing to submit to the rules of the district. The priest, however, advises the children not to return at present, and, it is said, will go to law about it.

The national reunion of the original anti-slavery advocates convened at Chicago Tuesday afternoon. About two hundred delegates were in attendance, and the church was well filled with spectators. Hon. Henry Wilson was chosen president, but, as he had not yet arrived, General Chitlain was called to preside temporarily. Letters were read from William Lloyd Garrison, Francis Gillette and Charles Francis Adams expressing regret at their inability to be present. The afternoon exercises closed with reading a portion of an address of a reminiscent character by Rev. William Goodsell, which will be completed in daily instalments.

A GLOOMY PROSPECT.—The American Print Works in Fall River will shut down this week for a month, which will have a decided influence on the cloth mills, as its consumption is 24,000 pieces a week, equal to the production of several of the large mills. Other print mills at different localities are also about to shut down, which use weekly about 110,000 pieces of print cloths. This of course will cause an accumulation of cloth, or necessitate a cessation of manufacture, which will of course vitally affect a large number of laborers. In Fall River, for instance, where there are thirty four mills, should the prospect of an accumulation lead to a shutting down, an industrial population of some 30,000 would be affected, and the distribution of $492,250 a month cease, the average monthly pay roll of the mills. The bare possibility of such an occurrence is sad to contemplate. Should this alternative come, all classes would feel the shock, and a general depression of all business occur.—Providence Press.

That Providence is to have a new first-class hotel is now a certainty, the last of the $300,000 necessary being subscribed Saturday. The plans have not been fully decided upon, but it will probably be a seven-story building and contain about 200 rooms for guests. L. H. Humphrey of the City Hotel will be the landlord, and will furnish it thoroughout in the best possible manner.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Between the hours of eleven and twelve the General Assembly did little except consider several acts of incorporation and other local bills. An act relating to inland fisheries was passed in the house and referred to the committee on fisheries in the senate. In the house Mr. Spencer of Providence moved that when the General Assembly adjourned today it adjourn to meet tomorrow in Providence. He afterward withdrew the motion, but he gave notice that he should renew it if it appeared that the General Assembly could not complete its business tomorrow. An act authorizing the erection of a wharf at Block Island was referred to the judiciary committee. That committee were relieved from the consideration of the petition of the Newport Gas Light Company and the petition was referred to the committee on corporations. The judiciary committee offered a bill authorizing any town or city to establish an industrial school for truant and vagrant children between the ages of six and sixteen years.

At noon the two houses met in convention and before the voting began Gov. Howard addressed the convention as follows:

The Assembly will kindly allow me to trespass upon their time for a moment. I had supposed that my unvarying determination not to be a candidate for the office of Senator in any event, was sufficiently understood. I learned, yesterday afternoon, however, that the impression was gaining ground notwithstanding the authorized expression of my views in both houses that should I be elected to the office I might be induced to qualify myself for the discharge of its duties, or in other words, to use a technical and familiar phrase, that I was "in the hands of my friends." This has not been the case at any time, and my respect for this honorable body, as well as my sense of propriety forbid that I should allow this misapprehension to continue. I concede that in such matters there may be times when the desires and preferences of the individual should be subordinated to the demands of the public good, but it must be insisted upon as the right and responsible duty of the individual to decide for himself upon the reasonableness and force of such demands. I therefore deem it sufficient for me to say that for reasons which to me are entirely satisfactory and conclusive, I cannot place myself at the disposition of the General Assembly in this instance. I trust that this conclusion on my part will not be construed as an act of disrespect since I fully realize the weighty and lasting obligations I am under for your many and generous expressions of confidence and kind consideration. My good friends who have thus far honored me with their votes will pardon me, I am sure, for asking them to now bestow their suffrages elsewhere.

The convention then proceeded to vote three times for Senator. The following table gives the result of all the votes thus far.

The positive refusal of Governor Howard to put himself "in the hands of his friends" removes from the candidates for the Senatorship one of the very best of their number, but it may materially shorten the conflict. Gov. Howard is a very popular man and he has shown an increasing strength in the General Assembly which has seriously threatened the success of some more prominent and more anxious candidates. With Gov. Howard out of the field the contest is materially narrowed down. The Dixon men claimed that the Howard men would come over to them, but the voting today indicates nothing of that kind.

At 2 o'clock the House adjourned, to meet at Providence, Tuesday, June 17, at 11 A. M.

At 2.15 the Senate adjourned to same place and time.

STATISTICS OF INTEMPERANCE.—The testimony of competent judges is decided in the opinion that the use of ardent spirits is hurtful to health and long life, and the old-fashioned calculations of Neison, in his Vital Statistics, are confirmed by the researches of the general life-office. According to those estimates, the probability of death among drinkers between twenty-one and forty years is ten times as much as among the whole population; between forty-one and sixty years, four times as much; and among habitual tipplers over sixty years of age, twice as much as among the people at large. In England, 1859-69, more than 8000 cases were reported of men who had literally drunk themselves to death. Neison has given us his investigation of 6111 tipplers, that out of 1000 68.4 die annually, while out of 1000 inhabitants of the same age only nineteen die. Thus the mortality among drinkers is three times as great as in the community at large. He has carried out his calculations into all ages, and shown how this chronic self-murder marvelously diminishes the expectation of life. The highest point as to numbers is found in the years 1851-60, which report 192 men and 41 women intemperate out of 10,000, in England and Wales, and which reckon the diminution in the rate of expectation of life accordingly. This last statement is most startling, and shows a falling off in the probable term of life for each ten years, from twenty to sixty and upward, of respectively twenty-eight, twenty-two, seventeen, ten, and five years, with fractions, and amounting to the fearful percentage, respectively, of thirty-five, thirty-eight, forty, fifty one, and sixty-three per cent. of probable life, as compared with the population. Surely strong drink is slow fire, and intemperance is voluntary madness and chronic suicide.—[Dr. Samuel Osgood, in Harper's Magazine.

THE CORSICAN CAT.

Turning over recently an old file of newspapers, dating about the time of Napoleon's expedition to the Nile, we were struck by the frequency with which Dame Rumor slew, drowned or starved to death that great soldier, who so persistently came to life again that one of his nicknames was "The Corsican Cat." In Egypt alone the death of the first consul occurred almost daily. At the Red Sea, he received five mortal wounds, and just lived to surrender his sword to Nelson. In ascending the Nile he perished of thirst. At Cairo, he was assassinated by a Tripoline gentleman. Soon after he left Cairo, he was seized by Murad Bey and guillotined. Passing over the desert of Suez a burning mountain of red-hot sand was raised by a whirlwind, that buried him and his army a hundred fathoms deep. Just before he reached Suez, he and all his troops perished by famine. At Suez, the army was attacked by the plague, and Bonaparte was among the victims. At St. Jean d'Acre, he was taken prisoner by a Turkish detachment, who fired him off from the mouth of a cannon. Making his escape from St. Jean d'Acre, he and all his army were drowned in the Red Sea. On his return to Egypt, the army mutinied, and cut off Bonaparte's head, sending it to the Turkish pacha as a peace-offering, to allow them to return to France. As a matter of fact Napoleon never needlessly or rashly exposed himself to personal danger; but perpetual rumors of his death were started by his enemies, with whom the wish was father to the thought.

In our times, we have analogous illustrations of the same popular propensity to thus conveniently dispatch conquering generals. Everybody remembers the amusing stories that used to be current in Richmond, Charleston and even Baltimore to the effect that Grant, Sherman or some other union officer had been killed in battle or had died on the march. The Paris papers during the late war frequently had King William and Count Bismarck, the crown prince and Prince Frederick Charles, sick or slain in battle, while, as for Moltke, they at one time not only had him dead, but laid out in his coffin, and even carried back to Germany for interment.

DUNKERS.—Considerable prominence has been lately given to the sect of Dunkards, or Dunkers, by their recent convention, and the discussion of the extension of the holy kiss to colored members of their church. They are an order of Baptists who derived their name Dunker, or Tunker, from the german word 'tunken' to dip, and they originated in Schwarizenau, Germany, in 1708, and they all came to this country between 1719 and 1729. They resemble in some respects the denomination called Christians in their rejection of all tradition and their adhesion to the letter of the Scriptures, although differing from them in particulars. They anoint the sick with oil and they celebrate the Lord's Supper with the washing of feet, the kiss of charity and the right hand of fellowship. The controversy now going on among the Dunkards as to the Holy Kiss has new interest when we remember that the solution entered undoubtedly into the most solemn services of the ancient Catholic Church, has been subject of ecclesiastical legislation at various times, and is now performed vicariously by the clergy in the Roman Catholic mass in what is called the accolade. There appears to have been in former times a vessel, or consecrated article, called the osculatarium, which was kissed by the priest and his assistants in the mass to represent the kiss of peace, which was once performed by all the communicants in literal simplicity.

THE SPEED OF RAILROAD TRAINS.—Mr G. K. Snow, the original editor and proprietor of the Pathfinder, gives some very interesting reminiscences of railways during the past twenty-five yeras, in the June issue. Among these there is a comparison of speed as between then and now. With all the modern improvements, express trains as a general thing made less through speed than in 1849, as for instance, on the Boston and Providence road the difference is ten minutes in favor of the latter period, both on express and accommodation trains. In 1851 the through New York trains from Boston made the time to 32d street, 7 hours 16 minutes; in 1873 to 42d street, 7 hours 15 minutes. All this may be accounted for by longer trains, heavier cars and being compelled by law to stop at all rail-crossings of other roads at grade, and at drawbridges. In the fall of 1850 an express was run from Boston to Concord, N. P., 73 miles, in two hours. From the same authority we learn that Mr. A. S. Mathews, superintendent of the Stonington and Providence Railroad, is the only man remaining in active service that was a superintendent in 1849.

All Saints' chapel will be open for the season on Sunday, June 14. Morning service at eleven o'clock. je10

Plain Words for the People.

When broken down in health, strength and spirits, it is not necessary that we should ask a medical man whether an invigorant is necessary. Common sense tells us that it is. The only question to be decided is, what the invigorant shall be. A standard tonic and restorative, which has been many years before the public, and in which millions of the intelligent classes repose the fullest faith, seems, in a case like this, to present the strongest claims to the confidence of the prudent invalid. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be truly said to possess these high recommendations. Its triumphant progress during a period of over twenty years, its present popularity, and the uniform success which attends its use for indigestion, nervous debility, billiary complaints, fever and ague, and all ailments which depress the physical system and enervate the mind, entitle it to the rank of a standard national specific. It is regarded in that light by the community at large, and hundreds of thousands of both sexes resort to it at this season as a preventive of that numerous and harassing class of diseases which take their rise from the miasmatic winds and vapors of spring. It is a stimulant, a tonic, an alterative and a mild aperient—four essential restorative and protective elements of the materia medica—united in a single agreeable preparation. Every ingredient is vegetable, of the finest quality, and absolutely pure. Hostetter's Bitters are better known, held in greater esteem, and command a larger sale, than any other proprietary medicine manufactured in this country or imported from abroad.

Saturate a Piece of Bread or Meat with gastric juice, and it will dissolve. This is digestion. Add to such a mixture a little alcohol, and it will not dissolve. This is indigestion. Beware, then, of tinctures, or tonics, or decoctions containing spirituous liquors. Shun all rum "tonics," and rely solely on DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, the finest digestive invigorant known, and free from the fiery curse of Alcohol. je1-1w

Don't be Discouraged. Suppose you have "tried fifty remedies" and received no benefit, is there therefore "no balm in Gilead?" Verily there is. Your liver may be congested, your stomach half paralyzed, your nerves quivering, your muscles knotted with torture, your bowels constricted, your lungs diseased, your blood full of impurities—yet in one week after commencing a course of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS you will feel like a new creature. my18-4w

Astral Oil.

PRATT'S ASTRAL OIL.

WHAT IS IT? Astral Oil is a derivative of petroleum, produced by a new and improved process of manufacture, which gives it all the good, without any of the objectionable qualities of ordinary refined kerosene. Explosion is guarded against, and families can burn ASTRAL OIL with THE SAME ASSURANCE OF SAFETY AS THEY CAN GAS.

ITS QUALITIES.—It is perfectly pure, containing no mixture or chemicals. It gives a clear, uniform and beautiful light, unequalled even by gas. It is free from objectionable odors. It burns in the ordinary kerosene lamps. It is always uniform in quality.

ITS SAFETY.—The Astral Oil may be relied upon as non-explosive and in every way perfectly safe to use. If, while burning, a lamp be upset and broken, the contents will not explode or take fire. It is the safest oil that can be made. Persons once using it will have no other. For sale by grocers generally. d29

Newport Daily News.

THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1874.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Indian Affairs.

WASHINGTON, June 10.

The Interior Department, smarting under the recent letter of resignation of the Indian peace commissioners, which is regarded as a reflection upon the management of the Indian bureau, is determined to pursue the members of the commission with a view of breaking down the force of their statements.

A despatch was prepared by B. F. Cowen, assistant secretary of the interior, and furnished to the agent of the Associated Press last night, reflecting severely upon members of the Indian peace commission, and going to show that they were a useless appendage to the Indian bureau. It is understood that if the Interior Department keeps up its fight upon the commissioners the latter propose to make some important revelations about the management of Indian affairs.

The Financial Compromise Bill.—The Probability of a Veto Certain.

The general talk among Congressmen is unfavorable to the finance bill agreed upon by the conference committee and the belief is almost universal that if both houses pass the bill the President will veto it. A prominent Senator says that the President is not disposed to accept any compromise and will veto any measure that does not come up to his declared opinions. The bill will be reported to both houses today for action.

The Late Assistant Treasurer.

The friends of Mr. Sawyer are circulating a paper for the signatures of Senators, which ask that he be retained as Assistant Secretary. The first four signatures were Messrs. Spencer, Conover, West and Clayton. This paper states the signers have examined the Sanborn testimony, and find nothing in it reflecting on Mr. Sawyer. Several Senators refused to sign it, and probably it will be withdrawn.

Treasury Rumors.

Rumors of changes in the Treasury Department are in active circulation today.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Arizona Apaches.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.

A dispatch from Prescott, Arizona, states that on the 21st of May Lieutenant King's command attacked a band of Apache Indians on Wesa river, near Diamond Butte, and killed nine. Eighty-four Apaches with three chiefs surrendered at Camp Verde.

Thunder Storm in Paterson, N. J.

PATERSON, N. J. June 10.

A terrific storm of thunder and lightning, and heavy rains, passed over this vicinity last evening. A driver on Vreeland avenue, sitting on a bed at the time, was struck by lightning, which left a blue spot on his forehead, blackened his face, and left him sitting a rigid corpse, bolt upright in bed. The house of Mr. See was also struck, the fluid passing down one of the four rods on the house and entering the dining-room, where the family were at tea, tearing off the plaster, boards, &c, and passing out through the kitchen without hurting anybody.

At Passaic, a valuable horse in Van Dusen's stable was killed.

The Damage Around Norristown.—The Peach Trees and Crops Ruined.

NORRISTOWN, N. J., June 10.

News received here states that the storm of last evening committed fearful ravages west of this city. In the village of Ironia every pane of glass having a northern exposure was broken by hailstones. The wheat all through the upper part of this county is cut down and ruined, the peach trees stripped of their foliage and poultry killed. The injury to the growing crops is very serious.

The New Reformed Church.

CHICAGO, June 9.

Bishop Cheny, tonight, administered the rite of ordination to Dr. B. B. Usher, of Aurora, Ill., and H. H. Brooks, of California. These are the first ministers of the Reformed Episcopal Church ordained in the West.

OUR SENATORSHIP.

A SKETCH OF THE MEN WHO HAVE OCCUPIED THE PLACE WHICH THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY IS NOW TRYING TO FILL.

A Senatorial election seldom fails to be a lively piece of political work in our sister state, where they take their politics hot and strong and well stirred up. They don't believe in lemonade or lager, but charge their glasses high. Rhode Island has sent some very able men to the Senate, and she is bound to keep her record good by sending more. In the early days of the Senate she sent Theodore Foster, Joseph Stanton, Ray Greene, Christopher Ellery, James Fenner, Francis Malbone, Elisha Mathewson, Christopher G. Champlin and Jeremiah B. Howell to that body, all of whom were men of note in their day, and are remembered by persons who take an interest in the personal history of politics, if we may so call it. Governor Fenner was a man of strongly marked character. He died in 1846, almost forty years after he left the Senate, and Mr. Mathewson died no longer ago than 1853, almost forty-three years after the close of his Senatorial career. William Hunter was chosen a Senator in 1811, and remained in office ten years. He was one of the finest orators we ever have heard, and we did not hear him speak till he was almost sixty years old. He was one of the last of our northern Americans who went to England to study, after the old colonial, though he was born only a year before the separation from England took place; and he was of the Inner Temple. He was minister to Brazil in President Tyler's time, and died in 1849. Mr. William Hunter, so long of the State Department, is his son, we believe. James Burrill, who went into the Senate in 1817, died, very suddenly, at the close of 1820. Few men have been more successful than Mr. Burrill was in establishing a reputation early,—and his reputation was as deserved as it was high. Had he lived, he would have been one of the first of Americans in the third age of the Republic, ranking with Webster and Clay, and men of that class, though he was a little older even than Clay. Governor Knight was Senator from Rhode Island for twenty years, (1821-1841), being four times chosen, and three times for full terms. He was not a brilliant man, but he was a good Senator,—and he was in the Senate longer than any other man from his state. The ablest of his colleagues was Asher Robbins, who was in the Senate from 1824 to 1839, and who would have risen to deserved eminence in any country. James De Wolfe was Senator in 1821-25, the Dives of his day. James F. Simmons was first elected to the Senate in 1841, serving six years; and he had a second term in 1857-63. He was a shrewd politician rather than a statesman, and an indefatigable worker. The elder William Sprague, though not the eldest, was sent to the Senate in 1842-44, succeeding Mr. N. F. Dixon, 1839-1842; and the younger, from 1763 to 1875.

Gov. John Brown Francis was Senator in 1844-45. Gen. Albert C. Greene a lawyer of much distinction, and long Attorney General of Rhode Island, was Senator from 1845 to 1851. John H. Clarke was Senator in 1847-53; Gen. Charles T. James in 1851-57; and Gov. Philip Allen in 1851-59 all of them men of the commanding class. Lt. Governor Samuel G. Arnold was in the Senate in 1862-63, one of the ablest men ever sent to that body, and famous for having written the best work on State History ever produced, his History of the State of Rhode Island standing without a rival in an important department of American historical literature. Governor Henry B. Anthony, a sound and brilliant journalist, was elected to the Senate in 1859, and has been twice re-elected, and will serve till 1877 at least. Should he be re-elected again, which is likely to be the case, and serve out a fourth term, he will have served longer than any other Senator from his own state, and, we believe longer than any Senator from any other New England state.—[Boston Traveller.

THURSDAY, JUNE 11, 1874.

BREAKING UP OLD PASTURES.—A correspondent in the city who amuses his leisure hours with the management of a farm, asks: "Is there any advantage in our country in keeping up old pasture fields, as in the old country? There they are not tempted to turn up sod for Indian corn, as we are. Is this the reason for their partiality for old pasture fields and for their rarity with us? I have kept a few sheep and cattle for years, and which I intend to keep for permanent pasture, but my farmer is always urging me to let him put in corn: 'It would give me such a beautiful crop,' says he."

Farmers in the old country probably have as much temptation to plow up old pastures as we have, and with the somewhat uncertain tenure of tenants at will they doubtless need the restraint of the landlords' interest to prevent their doing so. We are usually landlord and tenant rolled into one, and our hope of immediate profit should always be tempered by our forethought as permanent owners. I have but one word of advice for any one who proposes to break up good grass land for the sake of growing a crop of corn, that is, "Don't." In the first place, to a man who needs grass, whether for hay or pasture, nothing is so valuable as a well sodded field.

The only reason for plowing it should be to seed it down again, and this may nearly always be obviated by other means. The harrow, fresh seed, and above all, top dressing and kind treatment in the way of a blanket of full growth to carry it through the Winter, will renovate and perpetuate a sod on any land that is fit for grass at all. If you have such a field as you describe, cherish it as the apple of your eye. It may take you years and years to restore it, if you once break it up.—[Ogden Farm Papers.

WHAT ALCOHOL WILL DO.—It may seem strange, but it is nevertheless true, that alcohol, regularly applied to a thrifty farmer's stomach, will remove the boards from the fence, let cattle into his crops, kill his fruit-trees, mortgage his farm, and sow his field with wild oats and thistles. It will take the paint off his building, break the glass out of the windows, and fill them with rags. It will take the gloss from his clothes and the polish from his manners, subdue his reason, arouse his passions, bring sorrow and disgrace upon his family, and topple him into a drunkard's grave. It will do this to the artisan and the capitalist, the matron and the maiden, as well as to the farmer; for in its deadly enmity to the human race alcohol is no respecter of persons.—[The Temperance Worker.

Passed at the May Session, 1874.
